

Week Nine Weekly Update

Hello parents,

This is the final week of assigned work. I am posting the expectations sheet on the Dojo Class Story, but there is no packet, because there are no worksheets. It's hard to take in, but after 35 years, this is my final week of teaching, and I can't end my career assigning worksheets. I plan for the students to explore some of the online resources, and there are assignments, but the students will find assignments that suit their preferences.

This isn't really a good bye message. I'll see everyone at the Bridging Ceremony in the fall, and I'll be at school one afternoon a week to teach drumming. I'll probably do a little subbing, but only for Montessori.

Thank you all for everything. Our kids will be fine, they really will. Stay positive, happy and healthy.

The Expectations Sheet is the same for both 4th and 5th Grade this last week.

Peace,

Mr. Wills
